MESSAGE FROM THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE FOR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

I am honored to report to Congress the accomplishments of the U.S. Department of Commerce, Economic Development Administration (EDA) for Fiscal Year (FY) 2022.

In FY 2022, EDA made historic efforts to establish a foundation for local economies to build back stronger while supporting regional innovation and the creation of good-paying, sustainable jobs. I commend the strong and focused EDA team for their tireless work in driving $3 billion in American Rescue Plan funds into our valued communities to help them respond to and recover from the impacts of COVID-19. EDA delivered critical investments to all 50 states and territories via a number of grant programs and efforts.

Focus on Regional Economies

We are excited to continue to prioritize the creation of strong regional economies that will strengthen our national competitiveness and drive innovation as we move forward into FY 2023. We will expand on the successful models of our marquee American Rescue Plan programs – the Build Back Better Regional Challenge and Good Jobs Challenge – to implement locally-driven, place-based economic development strategies across the nation.

Our commitment and investments into Coal, Indigenous and Rural communities, helped ensure that EDA grants met communities where they are, and ensure a stronger post pandemic recovery.

In FY 2022, EDA also focused on supporting American entrepreneurs to catalyze innovation and fuel economic growth.

2022 also marked the creation of our Economic Recovery Corps which focuses on the long-term strategy development by leveraging economic development experts to design and implement sustainable growth in local communities. A goal of the past year has been to support the growth of a diverse workforce in this field to drive innovation and strengthen regional economies, and, proudly, we met this goal.

EDA In Action

In October we announced 51 Build to Scale program grantees that are working today to support advanced manufacturing, bioscience, clean energy, and blue economy clusters in regions across the United States.

Investment Strategy to Build A Better America

We are proud of our 57-year history of helping communities advance their locally-driven innovation and economic development strategies. At our inception in 1965, we made targeted, locally-driven investments directly in distressed communities. While these investments are, and will remain, a core of our investment strategy, our programs and investments have evolved. Our approach is dynamic as we respond to the changing economic realities and landscape of our communities. At our core is a focus to invest in American innovation and competitiveness with a regional and place-based strategies.

Moving forward, EDA will double-down on our place-based strategies by leveraging the existing research & development (R&D), technology, industry and workforce capacity of various regional economies, in addition to honing in on the needs of our most persistently economically distressed communities. To do this, two exciting new programs that have been authorized and funded by Congress through the CHIPS Act: Regional Technology and Innovation Hubs (Tech Hubs) and the Distressed Area Recompete Pilot Program (Recompete Pilot Program).

EDA is committed to ensuring that our regions and communities are well equipped to build on their local assets. I am grateful to President Biden and the Biden-Harris administration, Congress and everyone who has supported our mission to equitably invest in communities, especially to those who have made our further investments into place-based initiatives seamless.

We will build on the impactful work of our American Rescue Plan programs as we now shift to implement our Tech Hubs and Recompete Pilot programs and refocus on developing local communities into hubs of innovation and opportunity for every American. We are committed to evolving in our expertise and our methods as we aim to grow our regions into global leaders and drivers of the industries of the future.

EDA'S MISSION AND ROLE

The Department of Commerce's mission is to create the conditions for economic growth and opportunity for all communities. EDA helps carry out this mission as a bureau through its dedication to improving U.S. competitiveness globally, and ensuring that the economy works for everyone.

The mission of the EDA is to lead the federal economic development agenda by promoting innovation and competitiveness, preparing American regions for growth and success in the worldwide economy. EDA's investment policy is designed to establish a foundation for sustainable job growth and the building of durable regional economies throughout the United States.

Guided by the basic principle that sustainable economic development should be locally-driven, EDA works directly with communities and regions to help them build the capacity for economic development based on local business conditions and needs. EDA's grant investments in planning, technical assistance, and infrastructure construction are designed to leverage existing regional assets to support the implementation of economic development strategies that make it easier for businesses to start and grow. AMERICAN RESCUE PLAN

On March 11, 2021, President Joseph R. Biden signed the American Rescue Plan into law. This historic legislation was designed to enable all Americans to respond to and recover from the impacts of COVID-19, and to build local economies that will be resilient to future economic shocks.

Under the American Rescue Plan, EDA was allocated $3 billion in supplemental funding to meet the urgent needs of American communities. With deep gratitude to our partners, industry, and communities across the country, EDA is proud to share that as of September 27, 2022, EDA invested its $3 billion in transformational American Rescue Plan projects, across 780 grants awarded through six innovative grant programs. These projects are expected to create or save 220,000 jobs across the country and generate approximately $20 billion in private investment to help reinvigorate local economies.

Two cornerstones of the American Rescue Plan, the $1 billion Build Back Better Regional Challenge and the $500 million Good Jobs Challenge, will create quality job opportunities for thousands by supporting new industry sectors and creating innovative new workforce development networks. The Build Back Better Regional Challenge provides transformational investments to support regional organizations across the country to advance local industries. The Good Jobs Challenge emphasizes strengthening job training systems for historically underserved communities.

AMERICAN RESCUE PLAN

Build Back Better Regional Challenge

The Build Back Better Regional Challenge was a place-based, bottom up 2 phase process that gave communities the ability to dictate what they needed to grow their local economies. Investments made under the program were highly flexible based on local needs. The program invested in 24 states, of which more than $150 million went directly to coal communities.

The program invested in a diverse set of industries that reflect the diversity of the American economy. EDA's American Rescue Plan investments will create over 500,000 new jobs. Of the 21 winners, the sectors represented are: biotechnology (5), advanced mobility (4), natural resources & agriculture (4), advanced manufacturing (4), clean energy (3), and tribal finance (1).

The program was significantly oversubscribed with 529 total applications, 60 phase one finalists, that resulted in a competitive phase two set of challenge winners with a total of 21 grants awarded. Funding all 60 finalists would have required $4.2 billion. The competition also catalyzed more than $500 million in local investment, from 450 private sector partners and 27 labor unions and worker organizations.

AMERICAN RESCUE PLAN

Good Jobs Challenge

Similarly, the Good Jobs Challenge is making once-in-a-generation investments in high-quality, locally-led workforce systems to dramatically transform America's communities. EDA made awards to 32 industry-led, worker-centered training partnerships and systems across the country, which will impact 31 states and Puerto Rico. These workforce partnerships are providing tangible opportunities and security for American workers and connecting employers with the trained workforce they need to grow and maintain competitive economies. Good Jobs Challenge grantees project placing more than 50,000 participants in good jobs across 15 industries, including healthcare, information technology, manufacturing, and clean energy and climate resilience.

The program is bringing together diverse partners and local leaders — some for the first time — in regions across the country. Economic development organizations, workforce organizations, leading 2- and 4-year higher education institutions, local government partners, labor unions, community-based organizations, local chambers of commerce, and other key stakeholders have come together with large and small employers as coalition partners to create shared strategies and solutions to address the talent needs of regional economies. Key among those partnerships are employers and organized labor, who submitted 824 employer letters of commitment and 40 union or union affiliated letters of support.

President Biden's FY24 Budget requested $100 million in discretionary funds for the Good Jobs Challenge to fund another round of employer-led workforce training systems and partnerships to train and place American workers into quality jobs and support regional economies.

Economic Adjustment Assistance

To address the economic development needs of communities, $500 million in EDA funds were allocated to American Rescue Plan Economic Adjustment Assistance funds. This flexible and diverse funding helps prepare communities for the future by investing in enabling infrastructure, workforce development, business facilities, and planning grants.

AMERICAN RESCUE PLAN

Statewide Planning, Research, and Networks

Additionally, through the Statewide Planning, Networks, and Research fund, $90 million of American Rescue Plan funds support projects that will promote equity and develop local economies that will be resilient to future economic shocks and climate change.

Indigenous Communities

The Indigenous Communities program invested $100 million in American Rescue Plan funding specifically to support the needs of Tribal governments and Indigenous communities. These investments represent a critical step towards closing opportunity gaps and fostering economic mobility and resiliency in Indigenous communities across the country as they rebuild from the pandemic. Across all six American Rescue Plan programs, EDA has awarded more than $448 million to support Indigenous communities across the country.

Travel, Tourism, and Outdoor Recreation

For communities most impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic's effect on the tourism industry, EDA specially allocated $750 million. These Travel, Tourism, and Outdoor Recreation funds will build new tourist attractions, develop tourism-related economic plans, and support workforce training in the tourism sector.

Coal Communities Commitment

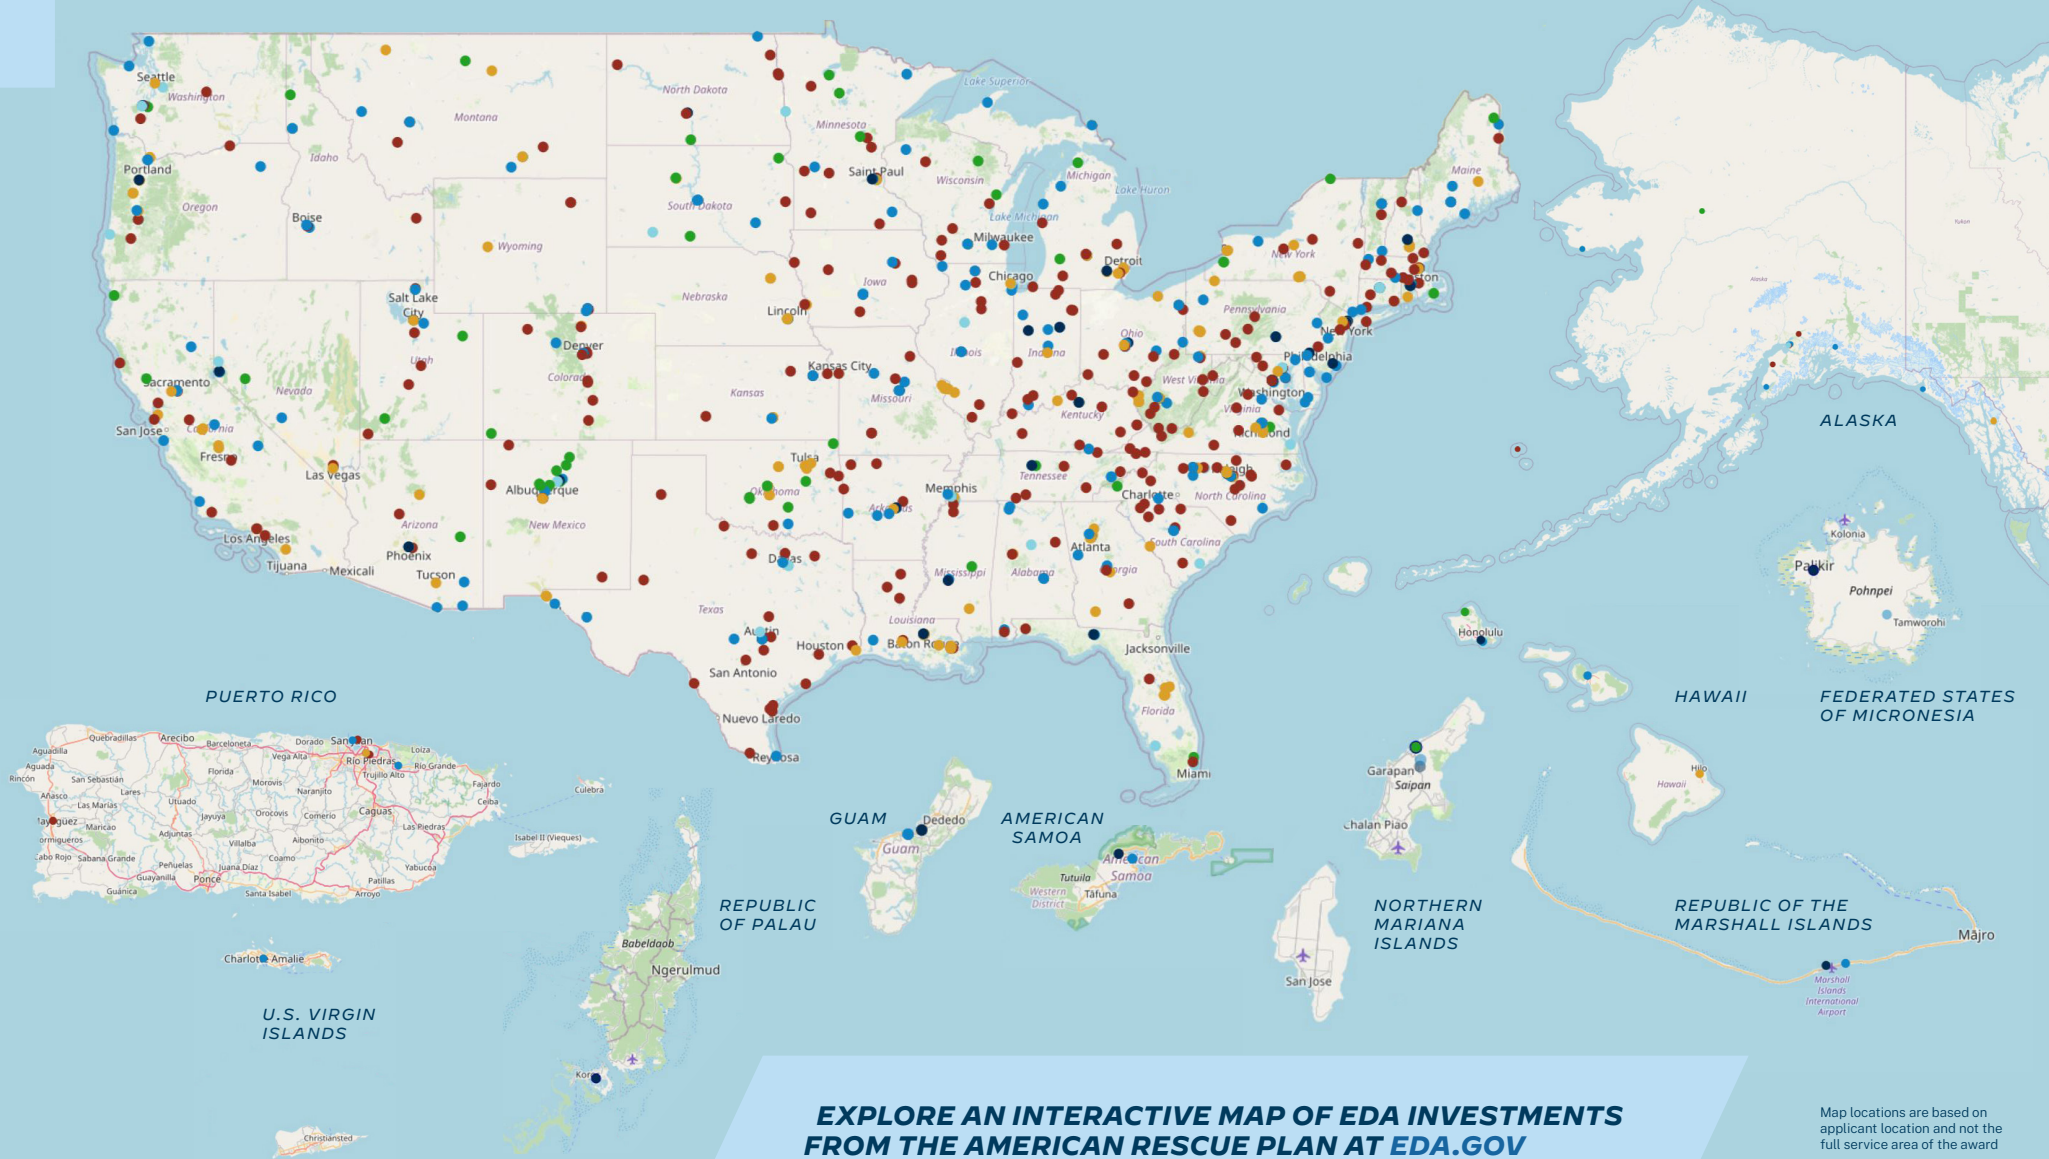

The Coal Communities Commitment was designed to allocate $300 million of EDA's $3 billion American Rescue Plan (specifically, $200 million from the Economic Adjustment Assistance program and $100 million from the Build Back Better Regional Challenge) — to support coal communities as they recover from the coronavirus pandemic. These funds support activities and programs that promote economic diversification, job creation, capital investment, workforce development, and re-employment opportunities.
