How to participate in the videoconference: Most city, state, and federal facilities as well as many universities and colleges offer satellite reception capability with videoconference viewing rooms. You will need to provide the facility management with the information contained in the box above, labeled, "Broadcast connection specifications." If you have difficulty locating a viewing facility, contact us at 202-457-0710.

Viewer questions and comments will be accepted during the broadcast by toll-free phone at 800-882-8498, by toll-free fax at 877-820-6451, and by e-mail at questions@narc.org. If on the day of the broadcast you experience any technical difficulties, call 202-994-8233.

NARC and EDA suggest that regional councils and EDDs host a mini economic development teleconference for their own region and/or district. After returning the registration form, host sites will receive information packets with evaluation forms.

For more information, see our websites: www.narc.org and www.doc.gov/eda.

This teleconference is sponsored under a cooperative agreement with the Economic Development Administration, U.S. Dept. of Commerce, and the National Association of Regional Councils in fulfillment of the grant requirements for "Information Dissemination Strategy for the New Economy."
